

P. P. C. Printing Facts

now in book form

During 1920 we published a series of newspaper advertisements in the New York Times, the New York Tribune, and the New York Herald, entitled P. P. C. PRINTING FACTS.

They attracted world-wide attention. Thousands of people wrote in congratulating us and requesting that the whole series be put in more permanent form.

It became at once clear that such elementary facts as the number of words to the square inch in a given type, the standard sizes of envelopes, the best method for figuring the weights of paper, definitions of technical terms, etc., etc., are constantly wanted within easy reach for reference by any one who has anything to do with printing.

In response to this insistent demand, we made P. P. C. PRINTING FACTS into a book.

We take pleasure in announcing that all you need to do now is to send for your copy on your business letter-head.

GERMANS STILL DEFIANT Call Movement an Act of War and Spurn Idea of New Negotiations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Copyright, 1921, by THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, London, March 9.

Allied diplomacy to-day entered what was known from 1915 to 1918 as a "war of attrition." The allied representatives after two conferences declared that the three sanctions decided on in the Paris and London reparations conferences would be applied against Germany until a settlement agreeable to the allied Powers regarding not only reparations, but disarmament and the trial of the German war guilty, was reached.

At the same time there came from best informed German quarters a statement that the recall of Dr. Sthamer, German Ambassador here, and other German Ambassadors in allied countries was a far more serious step than the Allies appreciate. The Germans regard the enforcement of the sanctions as an act of war, and, while admitting their own impotence to resist such an act of war, they are determined not to initiate new negotiations. This determination was reflected in news from Berlin, which indicated that the entire German nation was behind Dr. Simons in the position he took here. It is the belief in both British and French circles that Germany will suffer more than the Allies under the present circumstances. Germany is relying on the belief that the sanctions (penalties) are actually costing the Allies a net outlay of hard cash, whereas they are meant as a means of collecting hard cash.

Negotiations Off.

Both sides admit it will require a serious interval of time before their respective beliefs are tested and before any new negotiations will be either opened or entertained.

One important development to-day was a declaration by the French Premier, Aristide Briand, before the conference and later to newspaper correspondents here, in which he denied that France had any imperialistic ambitions in any of the steps taken.

"The sanctions are merely a method of enforcing the Treaty of Versailles," he said. "We wish publicly to declare that France has no intention of annexing permanently any of the territory involved."

This statement by Premier Briand followed a request by Premier Lloyd George for French assurances that France had no annexation of German territory in mind. The request by the British Prime Minister was based on comment by the French press that the establishment of the Rhineland customs barrier probably would lead to the secession of the territory occupied by the army of compulsion from the rest of Germany.

The conference in deciding to-day to press the sanctions against Germany reached an agreement to enforce a customs barrier along the Rhine against Germany. Serious consideration was given to means for making this fit in with the American tenure of the Coblenz bridgehead, which is occupied under the terms of the armistice agreement and not under the peace treaty.

In principle also the Allies reached an agreement on how the levy of the 50 per cent. tax on German exports into allied countries can be carried out and

BELGIANS OCCUPY RHINE COAL PORT

General of Occupation, which was posted in public places, was the proclamation by President Ebert calling the people to hear up peacefully under the Entente's "slavery." Gen. Degoutie's order places the miners "and other functionaries of the public utilities" under military control. It likewise forbids passenger train service except for workmen and international travelers. There have, however, so far been no cancellations of trains or other changes in the service.

The new customs administration is likely to be entirely separate and not connected with the other Rhineland regime.

PEACE RESOLUTION TO BE POSTPONED

Not to Be Pressed, as It Might Encourage Germany.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Copyright, 1921, by THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., March 9.

Discussion among members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and among Senators generally leaned strongly to-day to the view that President Harding will defer the presentation of the Knox resolution ending the state of war with Germany.

The fact that the question of presenting the resolution was not taken up either at the dinner the President gave to the party leaders on Monday night or at the Cabinet meeting yesterday indicates pretty positively that the President intends to go slow in the matter.

From the President down the line the party opinion is solidly favorable to the adoption of the Knox resolution as soon as circumstances justify. The President has been especially strong in his advocacy of this course. But the fear between the Allies and Germany has put the matter in a different light and there is reason to believe the resolution now at a time when it might be hurtful to the Allies and encouraging to Germany in the reparations dispute.

"My judgment is that the presentation of the resolution will be postponed," said Senator New to-day, "and that there is no possibility of withdrawal from German soil for some time to come of the 12,000 American troops now stationed there."

AUSTRIA TO GIVE UP CATTLE.

Vienna, March 9.—Formal notice that it would be required to fulfill the livestock provisions of the Treaty of St. Germain has been served upon the Austrian Government by the Reparations Commission. This involves the delivery to Italy, Yugoslavia and Rumania of 20,000 head of cattle, including 5,000 milch cows.

The Germans, on the other hand, according to news received here, are firm in their contention that the enforcement of the allied sanctions constitutes a violation of the peace treaty.

Diplomatic Relations Broken.

The British press to-day gives prominence to reports that a new reparations offer may be expected from Germany with the return of Herr Sthamer, German Ambassador in London, and Dr. von Meyer-Kauffmann, German Ambassador in Paris, to their respective diplomatic posts.

One German official here in commenting on these London newspaper reports said: "It is a mistake to construe the recall to Berlin of the German Ambassadors in London, Paris and Brussels as being merely a summoning of them to attend a conference. It cannot be interpreted otherwise than as a rupture of diplomatic relations. We are leaving the Embassy secretaries here, but we feel we cannot leave a German Ambassador in a capital whence war is being carried on against Germany at the very moment the peace treaty is being settled."

An excuse for delay in the enforcement of further sanctions was provided in the determination arrived at by the allied conference here to-night to submit bills providing for the 50 per cent. levy on German exports to their respective parliaments. The British measure will be drafted to-night and will be published to-morrow.

BISHOPRIC CHOICE HELD UP.

Rome, March 9.—The Consistorial Congregation has applied to New York for information regarding the appointment of an auxiliary Bishop of New York. This means that the choice has been postponed.

PEOPLE HAIL SIMONS, PRESS BLAMES HIM

Say Last Offer Was Unauthorized and He Must Resign.

BERLIN, March 9.—Crowds waiting at the station to-night greeted Dr. Simons, head of the German delegation to the Reparations Conference, with an ovation on his arrival from London. The crowds sang "Deutschland Uber Alles" and other patriotic airs. There was a similar demonstration at Elberfeld.

The German Government is issuing a White Book on the London conference. Both Pan-German and the more moderate newspapers concur in the statement that Dr. Simons's latest offer to the Allies was unauthorized, and declare that he will be obliged to resign as Foreign Secretary, because he exceeded the limits prescribed.

Dr. Simons will address the foreign affairs committee of the Reichstag on Thursday.

The Foreign Minister already is being sharply attacked in a section of the Nationalist press for failing to make a sterner protest against the accusation of war guilt. He is known, however, to have the solid backing of the Cabinet. Vorwarts charges that formally and legally the Entente has begun a new war, thus admitting the terms of the peace treaty are inadequate and demanding that the Allies thus have indisputably violated the treaty.

Suspicion is expressed in certain quarters that the Entente is seeking to get a firmer grip on Germany's coal production, thus enabling it to control even the domestic distribution.

The Bourse yesterday showed symptoms of nervous insecurity which was due not only to disruption of the London conference, but also was accounted for by a report that President Harding was opposed to any attempt to conclude a separate peace with Germany in the present situation because such action would be interpreted as an affront to the Entente.

LEEDS TO BE TREATED BEFORE JOINING MOTHER

Son of Princess Here to Consult Specialists.

William B. Leeds, Jr., the 17 year old son of the Princess Anastasia of Greece, who formerly was Mrs. William B. Leeds, arrived in New York yesterday and went to the Edgewater Hotel, where he will consult specialists concerning an infection of his arm. On the verdict of the physicians depends the question of whether Young Leeds will go to Greece to be with his mother, who is seriously ill in Athens.

Young Leeds's trouble with his arm is the result of the bite of a poisonous insect while hunting in Sumatra. He has undergone one operation and probably will have to undergo another. Every effort will be made to hurry his treatment so that, as soon as he is able, he may leave for Greece to be with the Princess.

certain sanctions (penalties) to Germany in view of the refusal of the German delegates to accept the allied decision on reparations. Among these regulations are:

A. The amount of duties collected by German customs on frontiers to be paid to the reparations commission.

B. These duties to continue to be levied in accordance with the German tariff.

C. A line of customs to be temporarily established on the Rhine and at boundary bridgeheads occupied by allied troops, the tariff duties on both entry and export goods to be determined by the allied high commission.

ALLIES READY TO HALT ANY MOVE ON SILESIA

Poles Report Massing of Germans on Border.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Copyright, 1921, by THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, Paris, March 9.

From a high military authority THE NEW YORK HERALD correspondent this afternoon obtained the information that the Allies envisaged all the necessary military precautions in the event the Bavarian Ochs (civil) troops attempt a coup d'etat in upper Silesia on the eve of the plebiscite as Germany's answer to the new occupation of the northern industrial zone.

This would probably involve the immediate despatch of battalions to Poland by way of Dantzig instead of over the long and complicated railway journey across Germany, although the military observers have recommended the immediate occupation of Mannheim as a precaution, the occupation eventually extending to Munich.

The Poles have reported the massing of German troops on their frontiers, as well as along the borders of upper Silesia, the formations being composed of trains camouflaged as irregulars, although directed by officers.
